

Iraqi Army Seizes Israeli-Made Weapons from ISIS Terrorists

The Iraqi army has discovered Israeli-made weapons in a hideout that belonged to the foreign-backed Takfiri militants in Al-Anbar and Saladin provinces.

According to reports, the army seized a cache of weapons, including Israeli-made LAV missiles, during an operation near Tikrit.

Reports say that the army found the hideout with the help of people and their reports and seized large quantities of homemade bombs, RPG rockets, mortars, roadside bombs, rocket launchers, and maps.

The Iraqi army destroyed large caches of weapons and ammunition used by the militants in the region, the source added.

Iraq has been gripped by deadly cycle of Saudi-backed sectarian violence. According to reports, the Western powers and their regional Arab allies are supporting the militants operating inside Iraq and providing them with money and weapons.
